DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.
- 2. Claims 1-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Hampton Bay (A1 PTO/SB/08 filed 11/8/2005).

Hampton Bay discloses an evaporative cooler. Referring to the figures, the cooler comprises a housing 1 with front panel, back panel, side panels, rigid media 9 located to the side panels, water distribution system 19, reservoir and centrifugal blower 2 for drawing air through the rigid media. The figure on page 1 shows the width is less than one half of a length defined by the distance between the right and left sides. Figure on page 5 shows the blower is partially extending beyond one of back panel. Figure on page 1 also shows the extension portion and the width is a design choice. Under the principals of inherency, if a prior art device, in its normal and usual operation, would necessarily perform the method claimed, then the method claimed will be considered to be anticipated by the prior art device. When the prior art device is the same as a device described in the specification for carrying out the claimed method, it can be assumed the device will inherently perform the claimed process. Ir re King, 801 F.2d 1324, 231 USPQ 136 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

In regard to the change of motor size, length, width and capacity, a change in size/capacity is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

In regard to two motors, the addition of duplicate parts to the apparatus is not the type of innovation for a patent to be granted. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., Inc., 193 USPQ 8, 11 (7th Cir. 1977). Also, a change in size/capacity is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955). In regard to the arrangements and structures, these are the design choice based on the cooler size, internal space, strength, usage, installation and appear.
